Tall Mark's EAT IT ANYWAY

a heartfelt musical comedy storytelling experience

Vancouver, BC – Tall Mark brings his one-man non-fiction absurdorealism show EAT IT ANYWAY back to the Vancouver Fringe Festival at Studio 16 after an award-winning cross-Canada tour.

"Canada has a new song satirist"
Montréal Times

🏅 Best National Show - Saskatoon 2026

EAT IT ANYWAY is a five-instrument journey through the life of a performing artist navigating Ankylosing Spondylitis. Like a muppet poking fun at the world, playful songs and raw honesty are served up in a story of acceptance, self-discovery, and a fearless tasting of life's strangest dishes. Fusing satire with compassion, Tall Mark's autobiographical bouquet squirts emotional complexity, meaningful insight, and slick wit. While suitable for all ages, the experience guarantees to contain one swear word. ⚠️

"Tall Mark has instantly made my top five"
Culture Gecko Kingston Theatre Alliance
"One of the most satisfying Fringe experiences"

Tall Mark, from Parts Unknown (born in Vancouver, BC), has spent the past five years touring tip-to-tip across Canada with his unique brand of bard-jester shenanigans, instrument on his back and cane by his side. His whimsy has performed at festivals including Mariposa Folk, Islands Folk, and Filberg, served as mainstage emcee at Quadrapalooza, and led years of workshops at Woodstove Fest. A recipient of funding from FACTOR and Creative BC for his work in organizing and inspiring music community, Tall Mark's dynamic presence extends beyond traditional musicianship, creating a lively and connective experience for audiences. He can also wiggle each ear individually.
